How to Read These Wireframes

These low-fidelity wireframes are derived from the live page sections in server/templates/. They are intentionally grayscale and label-driven — they communicate structure, hierarchy, and content placement, not final visual design. Adding a new `<section id="...">` to the website automatically produces a new wireframe entry the next time this PDF regenerates. For colors, typography, and component styling refer to the Brand Standards PDF.
